The nature of investment in Financial Instruments is such that not all Financial instruments are suitable for everyone unless they:

1. are knowledgeable in investment matters,
2. are able to bear the economic risk of the investment,
3. understand the risk involved,
4. believe that the investment is suitable for their particular investment objective and financial needs and
5. have no need for liquidity of investment.

There are risks associated with CFD and Forex trading which are leveraged products and therefore carry a high degree of risk.

You should not engage in CFD or spot forex trading unless you understand the nature of CFD and/or spot forex trading, how they work, how you make a profit or a loss and the extent of your exposure to risk and loss. Note in particular that your losses can be unlimited and no deposit or other amount you have paid, such as the Initial Margin (also called Margin or Variation Margin) will limit your losses. You may lose all your invested capital and initial investment. Only speculate what you can afford to lose. It is also advisable that all investors should seek advice from a professional investment advisor before making any investment in Financial Instruments.
